

Holder of Copyright: Authors of scientific works should be aware that the publisher of such works obtain and hold the copyright of both scientific books and articles published in their journals. Requests for use of copyrighted material must be obtained from the publisher. Therefore, authors are not allowed to grant permission for others to use such copyrighted materials. Should an author receive a request for use of copyrighted material, the request should be referred to the publisher.